Welcome

From Race Director Leo Dignam

Welcome to Philadelphia and the 2019 Blue Cross Broad Street Run!

This year, the Philadelphia Department of Parks and Recreation's Blue Cross Broad Street Run is celebrating its 40 years running. All runners will receive an upgraded tech shirt with a brand new race logo and can enjoy an enhanced website. We also celebrate the citywide excitement that this annual spring tradition continues to generate!

Our title sponsor since 1997, Independence Blue Cross, has truly been a partner with the City of Philadelphia in growing this race to the largest 10-miler in the country and the sixth largest road race overall. The first Broad Street Run took place in 1980 with 1,500 runners starting at Broad and Somerville Streets and ending in the old JFK Stadium. Since that time the race has raised more than $5 million for the American Cancer Society and supports numerous community and charity programs throughout the Greater Philadelphia area through runners' donations and pledges.

On this milestone year, we are celebrating not only this iconic world-class race but also the City of Philadelphia itself. It's a huge part of the overall Run experience, as the course includes a variety of Philadelphia neighborhoods along Broad Street. This year we have more than 40 cheer zones along the 10-mile course to cheer our runners to the Navy Yard's finish line. And for the 5th consecutive year, the race will be broadcast live in its entirety from 8 – 10:30 a.m. by NBC 10 and Telemundo TV.

In addition to the Blue Cross Broad Street Run, Independence #Fearlessfit aims to motivate members and the community to pursue an active lifestyle through a variety of sponsored events, including skating at the Blue Cross RiverRink and the Indego bike share program.

Whether you're a first-timer or an annual runner, we hope the 40th Blue Cross Broad Street Run is a memorable and thrilling experience for you. We look forward to seeing you at the finish line!

Leo Dignam

Assistant Managing Director,
City of Philadelphia,
Department of Parks and Recreation

"We are thrilled to welcome runners and spectators to the 40th annual Blue Cross Broad Street Run, the largest ten-miler in the nation. Every year, Philadelphia has proudly given over 40,000 runners the opportunity to travel through historic neighborhoods distinguishing our city. Temple University, Avenue of the Arts, City Hall, and our notable Sports Complex are just a few landmarks highlighted on this route. We look forward to hosting another exciting day for athletes, spectators, and families."

GETTING TO THE START

The start area is located on the grounds of the Central High School Field at Broad Street and Somerville Avenue. You have several options to get there on race day.

Coming from inside the city

The best way to get to the start area is to take the Broad Street Line, free of charge for runners. Simply show your race bib to the cashier at any Broad Street Line station. Check septa.org for more information.

For those taking Regional Rail from outside of the city to Suburban Station, you can hop on the Broad Street Line at City Hall Station. If you're taking PATCO from New Jersey, get off at the 12th and 13th & Locust Station, walk two blocks west to the Broad & Locust Station on the Broad Street Line.

Coming from outside the city

If you plan on driving from outside of the city, you should park at one of the following locations:

- The Stadium Complex
- Center City
(and use any Broad Street Line station)
- FDR Park

Please don't park near the start area, as no parking is available. There is also no parking on Pattison Avenue or inside The Navy Yard. Normal parking restrictions will be enforced.

Once you've parked, you can get to the start area one of two ways:

- Take the Broad Street Line at NRG Station near the Stadium Complex for FREE
- Take a shuttle outside of NRG Station

All trains travel north to the Olney Transportation Center, right by the start area. Check broadstreetrun.com for updates related to parking and shuttles.

Using rideshare

Please have your driver drop you off at either:

- Broad Street and Chew Avenue
- Ogontz and Somerville Avenues

Tips for drivers

- Runners should carpool.
- Arrive early — all lots will open by 5:30 a.m. and will be closed as they are filled.
- If you're planning a post-race gathering, park in FDR Park or under the I-95 ramps.
- Please dispose of all trash before you leave.

Gear check

Use the clear plastic bags you received at the Expo to check your gear for FREE. Here's how gear check works:

- Put some form of identification, including your name, address, and phone number, inside your bag in case we need to ship the bag back to you after the race. We won't accept garments outside of the bag.
- Find a gear check bus located around the start area, including Olney Avenue, Old York Road, and Somerville Avenue. Consult the map on page 14 for specific locations.
- Check your gear by 7:45 a.m.
- Attach one wristband to your bag and give your bag to the gear volunteer. Keep the second wristband and sticker with you. You will need these to help you find your bus and claim your bag at the finish area.

- Remember the bus number in which you checked your gear because buses will not be loaded by bib number.
- Pick up your gear in The Navy Yard at the south end of the Marine Parade Grounds, in the parking lot directly across Constitution Avenue. Consult the map on page 24 for specific locations.

We will not accept any personal backpacks or other large bags at gear check on race day; you must have a clear bag. For your safety and the safety of others, all personal bags will be subject to inspection.

Stay informed on race day. Sign up for free emergency alerts from the Office of Emergency Management by texting RunPHL to 888-777.
